Geiranger

THE STORSÆTER WATERFALL: TREKKING IN THE MOUNTAINS

In a nutshell

From Geiranger you will ascend up hairpin bends past stunning scenery, then leave the coach to hike on foot past pastures and along mountain paths. The destination is the Storsæter waterfall, where you can walk right under the water, for a unique experience. The route ends at Westerås farm, with views over the fjord, for a refreshing break, before returning. Pure nature, true emotions.

Main stops

- Geiranger Church
- Hole Camping
- Hiking in the mountains
- Storsæter waterfall
- Westerås farm
- Drink at the farm

The programme

- We will leave the dock by coach and prepare ourselves for the ride up the hill whilst we pass Geiranger church, an octagonal wooden building with a slate roof nestled into the rocks.
- After a number of twists and turns, we will reach Hole Camping. We will leave the coach there and start our excursion on foot.
- Our route will see us zig-zagging up the mountain and crossing summer pastures. In the past, all the straw available was used, even the straw that grew in the most inaccessible places. It was collected and sent down the valley using the løypestreng, a cable that stretched to the nearest barn.
- Our destination is the spectacular Storsæter waterfall, which gushes out from a height of 30 metres forming a large curve so we can walk right under it!
- After admiring this incredible view, we will hike down to Westerås farm, which lies on a projection jutting out over Geiranger.
- Uninhabited during winter and at the beginning of spring due to the danger of avalanches, it is a hive of activity during the summer months and it is here that we will be served a drink.
- After relaxing for a while, we will have some free time to look around the farm before returning on foot to Hole Camping where our coach will be waiting to take us back to the quay in Geiranger.
- We recommend that you book early because only a limited number of places are available.
- This excursion is not recommended for guests with mobility problems.
- The walk to the waterfall takes around 1 hour (3 km) and covers rough ground and steep sections

NORTHERN EUROPE & FJORDS

so it may be tiring.

- We recommend wearing walking shoes and suitable clothing.

You will then walk up to the Briksdal glacier, a part of the imposing Jostedalsglaciers system, along wooden bridges and past streams, before the majestic ice appears before you. After a typical lunch, you will continue up the mountain road of Stryn to take the perfect photo at Flydal, with the ship in the background. Nature, emotions and Northern scenery all in a unique tour.

- Nordfjord, villages of Stryn, Loen and Olden
- Briksdal Glacier and spectacular nature
- Mountain lodge near the glacier with a stop for lunch
- Road to Stryn, return trip via Geiranger, tunnels and panoramic viewpoint at Flydal Gorge

The programme

- Our excursion begins in the village of Hellesylt, where we can admire the majestic waterfall of the same name, whose waters cascade down to the shimmering emerald green and ultramarine blue fjord below.
- We continue our journey towards Hornindalsvanet which, at a depth of 514 metres, can claim to be Europe's deepest lake; before us lies the magnificent Nordfjord, alongside the road through the villages of Stryn, Loen and Olden. This fascinating village nestles at the bottom of the fjord and stretches along numerous lakes in the Olden Valley as far as the mountain lodge at the Briksdal Glacier.

- Our walk takes us through stunning nature to the Briksdal Glacier, a branch of the mighty Jostedalsglacier, the largest in Europe.
- At first, the path climbs and crosses over the waterfall on a wooden bridge.
- At this point we find ourselves standing face to face with the massive glacier.
- We'll then walk back the same way to the mountain lodge, where we'll enjoy an excellent lunch.
- Back on our journey, we cross the valley alongside the extraordinarily beautiful lake towards Stryn.
- We climb the mountain road to Stryn, which used to link eastern Norway with the west.
- Our return journey to Geiranger runs through quite a few tunnels, and we make a final stop at Flydal to take a few snapshots of our ship, waiting for us in the fjord.

- Lake Djupvatn and the panoramic view point on mount Dalsnibba
- Flo and its fruit trees
- A photo stop at Flydal gorge

The programme

- Our excursion starts at Vollset, taking us all the way to Flo along one of the main roads once used for commerce between Sunnmøre, the Nordfjord and the eastern regions, between the coastal towns and those situated inland, starting in the Middle Ages. Goods were carried on one's shoulder or on horseback as the atmospheric conditions meant that the paths were almost impassable and alternative forms of transport could not be trusted.
- From Hellesylt we follow the course of the river Bygdeelva and head towards the Vollster farm, which sits approximately 250 metres above sea level.

- From here we proceed on foot.
- Along the path we will see three seter (traditional mountain farm huts) and numerous mountain lakes, reaching a maximum altitude of 550 metres above sea level
- During the climb we will make a brief stop to admire the Stryn lake, which reflects the imposing mountains of Skåla and Lofjellet and several smaller glaciers.
- We then descend down the path in the direction of Flo, an enchanting village sprinkled with fruit trees.
- Here we will board the coach once more and continue our trip along the banks of the 15 km-long Stryn lake, which is famous for its turquoise reflections. The new Stryn mountain road passes through several tunnels making it accessible even during the winter season.
- Having reached the shore opposite the mountains, we continue west along the banks of lake Djupvatn. At its furthest point, we turn and take a steep toll road to reach the panoramic view point of Dalsnibba.
- Having admired the unforgettable landscape that the observation point offers us, we descend to Geiranger, making a stop for photos at the Flydal Gorge.
- Places on this excursion are limited. We recommend booking early.
- We recommend you wear sturdy shoes that are suitable for walking.
- We recommend that you bring a wind-proof jacket as the mountain air can be cold even on a sunny day.
- This excursion is not recommended for guests with mobility problems.

- Participants will rejoin the ship at Geiranger.

ALL OF BERGEN: THE GRAND BUILDINGS, MARKETS AND HISTORIC STREETS

In a nutshell

Set off to discover Bergen by coach and explore the best this location has to offer. Admire King Haakon's Hall and the Rosenkrantz tower, stroll past the colorful wooden houses of the Bryggen district, a UNESCO world heritage site and take in the lively atmosphere of the fish market. Discover the delightful Nordnes peninsula, its panoramic views and the Bergen Aquarium before returning to ship, with some free time for further exploration.

Main stops

- Panoramic tour of Bergen
- Hanseatic Quarter of Bryggen
- Nordnes Peninsula

The programme

- We leave the port by coach and set off to explore Bergen, the second largest city in Norway after the current capital, Oslo. Bergen was founded in 1070 AD. Between the 12th and 13th centuries the city was the capital of Norgesveldet, the Norwegian Empire which included Iceland, Greenland and part of Scotland. Bergen flourished thanks to the export of fish (mostly dried fish) which was the city's main product in the Middle Ages. Even after Oslo became capital in 1299, Bergen continued to grow as a business centre, becoming the largest in Norway.

- Our panoramic tour begins by passing in front of some of the city's most important and symbolic landmarks, including King Haakon's Hall (Håkonshallen), the imperial residence, and the Rosenkrantz Tower (Rosenkrantzårnet), built around 1560 by the Governor of Bergen Tower, Erik Rosenkrantz, to serve as both as a residence and a fortified tower.
- Our tour then continues to the other symbol of the city, the ancient and picturesque wharf district of Bryggen ("bryggen" in Norwegian means "wharf"), which was built around 1350 by the Hanseatic League. It is the most enchanting neighbourhood of the city and extends along the eastern side of the port of Vågen, with long parallel rows of coloured buildings with sloping roofs (and leaning walls, in many cases), which are built with rough wooden planks on stacked-stone or wooden foundations. In the past, these buildings were used as offices, homes and stores and were used by the German merchants of the Hanseatic League, which enjoyed a trade monopoly with Norway. Today the Bryggen District is listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site and boasts shops, restaurants, cafés and artisan workshops.
- Passing by the bustling Fish Market (Fisketorget), we head for the Nordnes Peninsula, with its typical 19th-century white wooden houses. The Bergen Aquarium (Akvariet) at the tip of the peninsula, boasts one of the largest collections of marine and freshwater fish and invertebrates in Europe, in addition to seals and penguins; in the tropical section there are crocodiles, snakes, turtles and monkeys.
- As we continue on our way, we enjoy the splendid panorama that opens up on both sides of the port and, before returning to the ship, we cross the Fish Market once again and head for the Øvregaten, the oldest street in Bergen.
- Those who wish can stay a little longer at the Fish Market and return to the ship independently.
- The tour is suitable for people with disabilities and those with mobility problems as long as they can board the coach autonomously.
- Places on this excursion are limited. We recommend booking early.

IN THE HEART OF BERGEN: ON FOOT AND BY FUNICULAR RAILWAY

In a nutshell

Discover Bergen on foot, wandering down the alleys of Bryggen, past colorful facades and craft shops, then take the funicular up to Floyen for breathtaking views over the fjord and North Sea. Markets, wooden houses and the rebuilt stave church Fantoft Stavkirke round off the tour with its historic echoes, nature and fairytale atmosphere.

Main stops

- Håkonshallen, Rosenkrantz Tower and Bryggen Hanseatic Wharf
- Fløibanen Funicular, Mount Fløyen
- Central Park and Lake
- Residential area, wooden houses, gardens, Royal Residence, the wooden Fantoft Stavkirke (stave church)

The programme

- Our tour begins with passing by King Haakon's Hall (Håkonshallen), the imperial residence with adjoining banquet hall built by King Håkon Håkonsson in 1261 and the nearby Rosenkrantz Tower (Rosenkrantztårnet), which was built around 1560 by the Governor of Bergen, Erik Rosenkrantz, to serve both as a residence and a fortified tower. Today it even incorporates part of the keep (1273) of King Magnus the Lawmender and Jørgen Hansson's fortress of 1520.
- We will stop on at the picturesque old wharf district of Bryggen ("bryggen" in Norwegian means "wharf"), which was built around 1350 by the Hanseatic League. It is the most picturesque district of Bergen, extending along the eastern side of the port of Vågen, with its long parallel rows of colourful buildings. Once, these buildings were used as offices, homes and stores by the German merchants of the Hanseatic League. Today the Bryggen District is listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site and boasts shops, restaurants, cafés and artisan workshops. We wander around the alleys between the picturesque warehouses that line the street and along the seafront to enjoy the quaint atmosphere of this neighbourhood.
- We then arrive at the Fløibanen funicular station, which has been in operation since 1910. Once aboard, we are transported up the 26% gradient to an altitude of 320 metres a journey of about 8 minutes to reach the summit of Mount Fløyen (one of the seven mountains that surround Bergen, its name derives from the wind vane placed at the summit many centuries ago to indicate the force and direction of the wind to sailors entering or leaving the port below). Mount Fløien is very popular with the inhabitants of Bergen as a recreation area all year round. From the summit the view is truly impressive: we can see the heart of Bergen at our feet and looking to the west, on a clear day, you can also see the North Sea, and the neighbouring archipelagos.

- We take the funicular back down, and after boarding the coach, we cross the Fish Market square, with its seafood, flowers, fruit and vegetables and souvenir stalls and we head for the central park and the lake.
 - We then go through the residential area, admiring the well-preserved wooden houses, the gardens and the Royal Residence on our way to Fantoft Stavkirke. This wooden stave church, located in an enchanting wooded area to the south of Bergen, was rebuilt in 1992 after a terrible fire and is the exact replica of the original building which dated back to 1150. In the Middle Ages, in Norway, there were at least 800 of these typical stave churches; today there are only 30 remaining.
 - Places on this excursion are limited. We recommend booking early.
 - In the event of inclement weather, the view from the platform of the funicular may not be ideal; in these conditions you are also advised to wear appropriate clothing.
- The funicular is very popular among both locals as well as visitors; therefore, long lines at the Funicular should be expected.

PRINTED DOCUMENT 25/04/2026

- We will set off from the port by coach through Ullandhaug, an area famous for its reconstructions of Iron Age farms. Ullandhaug also boasts breath-taking views of the Hafrsfjord where, in 872, the Viking king Harald Fairhair defeated the last of the local princes and unified 29 small kingdoms under one crown, founding the Kingdom of Norway. To the east stretches the fertile landscape of Jæren, with the Ryfylke Mountains in the distance.
- We will then continue to the outskirts of Stavanger to admire the Sverd i fjell ("Swords in Rock"), a fascinating memorial by the sculptor Fritz Røed. The monument depicts three 10 metre-high swords that commemorate the historic battle of Hafrsfjord. The largest sword represents the victorious Harald, while the smaller ones symbolise the vanquished kings. The monument is also intended to symbolise peace, as the swords are struck in solid rock, from which they can never be removed.
- We will now pass through both the older and more modern districts of Stavanger; we will admire the outside of the Cathedral, built in around 1125 by Bishop Reinald of Winchester with the help of British craftsmen. Of all the churches built in Norway during the Middle Ages, Stavanger Cathedral is the only one that still retains its original features.
- Before returning to the ship, we will treat ourselves to a walk through "Old Stavanger", with its typical narrow streets lined with picturesque wooden houses that date back to the 18th and 19th centuries, a time when it was home to sailors, craftsmen and merchants. This unique area, located just a few minutes from the port, is now at the centre of the city's most ambitious redevelopment project.

KIEL: A SEA-THEMED STROLL

In a nutshell

Do you want to discover a city with a 'lasting link' with the sea? The aquatic roots of Kiel will amaze you with every step you take as you watch the comings and goings of the boats on its canal, and with your guide, admire the grand buildings overlooking the water and open-air pools from which northern fur seals emerge. Follow the canal to see the neoclassical Town Hall, the Opera House and the nautical Church of Saint Nicholas. You'll even have something tasty for your palate: tuck into a 'fish bun', the traditional sandwich made with local fish!

Main stops

- Walk through Kiel: seafront; Town Hall building; St. Nicolai church; Opera House; former Franciscan convent
- Snack with fish bun

The programme

- As you stand in front of the ships departing from the port of Kiel, you'll want to find out more about this city with a natural affinity for water: dive in, on a walk with your guide!
- They will tell you that this was the only town by the sea in this Saxon territory, but that it is also called the "city of sailing", for its unique regatta: this explains the sails and sailors you will glimpse along the waterfront.
- Meanwhile, near the port, you might come across a friendly seal or two splashing around in an open-air pool, capturing everyone's attention as they pop up.

NORTHERN EUROPE & FJORDS

- And even though the salty tang fades as you walk through the streets of the center, water is always at the heart of everything: The neoclassical Town Hall and Opera House look out over the canal, while St. Nikolai Church was originally a maritime place of worship dedicated to the patron saint of seafarers.
- Has all that walking given you an appetite? There's a typical fish bun ready and waiting for you - a sandwich filled with fresh fish caught right here. The Baltic in a mouthful.
- And if you're still hungry for more maritime discoveries, you can explore Kiel however you like, before returning to the ship.
- Wear comfortable shoes and clothing suitable for the experience.
- The sandwich can be enjoyed with soused herring, salmon or vegetables.
- Limited number of English guides: if none are available, you will be accompanied by a guide who will conduct the tour in English.
